

15.0 CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on experience gained through implementing programs as required by the previous Permit, the County has updated its JURMP to both improve stormwater programs and to meet the new requirements. Under the new Permit, the County has revised a number of their old programs and developed new ones to improve departmental communications and provide interdepartmental structure. The County plans to continually assess and refine these programs as needed to meet an ever expanding infrastructure and to protect the environment and human health. By continually improving the County's programs and implementing all necessary BMPs we can effectively reduce or eliminating pollutant runoff from the variety of areas and activities discussed throughout this JURMP document. The County will lead by example as well as work with the other jurisdictions to develop methods to foster and assess long-term success in regional water quality improvement.
